"Crime In Your Community"

"Armed Robbery is the subject of the current booklet prepared by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police under the general title of "Crime In Your Community."

The booklet is the fifth in the series which was instituted several years ago in the belief that the volume of crime in certain categories could be greatly reduced by acquainting the owners of business establishments and the public generally with certain simple measures by which they might safeguard their property, their goods and themselves from the criminal before the intervention of the police became necessary.

Made up of illustrations in silhouette with brief explanatory captions, the booklet is directed at the more lucrative targets of the armed robber, such as banks and business establishments, but discourage any notion on the part of the private citizen that he is immune from this type of crime.

The booklet recommends the instruction of employees in points of physical identification and the exercise of constant vigilance on the part of all personnel to enable them to detect the telltale, the suspicious-looking character, the bogus workman, i.e. the potential hold-up man. It outlines certain precautions by which robbery may be averted, or at least made more difficult, such as safeguarding excess cash, not discussing pay-roll or other cash deliveries in public places, the frequent changing of routes and messengers engaged in such deliveries and methods of escorting messengers.

The use of "ball-mime" is advocated. That is, the retention in a special section of the cash drawer of bills whose serial numbers have been noted.

Victimised establishments are advised to retain hold-up notes, with as little handling as possible, and to warn employees to touch nothing pending the arrival of the police. Simple warning signals are also discussed as is the advantageous placing of certain types of alarm systems.

A section of the booklet is devoted to a comparatively new system of identification by means of film strips. Each strip contains one of some 160 hairlines, 220 sets of eyes, 200 chins, 42 ears, 32 noses, 6 pairs of glasses and various styles of hats and wearing apparel. The individual transparent strips are superimposed to form a composite image. Witnesses are asked, for example, to select a strip bearing a hairline resembling that of the suspect and to this is added the selected chin, eyes, nose, ears, etc., until a likeness of the suspect is assembled. Remarkably accurate results have been achieved and an all important feature of the method is the speed with which the completed image can be produced.

Copies of the booklet are being made available to police departments in Canada for distribution to business establishments in their areas.

Fire Brigade Plans For Fire Prevention Week

The Coleman Volunteer Fire Brigade has this week commenced the sale of booster tags for the brigade's annual dance to be held Friday, November 4th in the Coleman Elks hall when a draw for a transistor radio will be made.

Fire Chief Henry Zak, Jr. has advised that all proceeds from the ticket sales are used to sponsor prizes for the school pupils' essay and poster contests held in conjunction with Fire Prevention Week which is held during the first week in October.

Mr. Zak indicated that some citizens are of the opinion that proceeds from the ticket sale has been used to furnish the brigade with uniforms but this is not so as each member of the brigade has purchased their own uniforms. The brigade wear the uniforms at parades and at times when their services are required around town for other purposes than fighting fire.

Each year during Fire Prevention Week the brigade sponsors prizes for the best posters and essays written by the pupils and students of the Coleman schools.

The fireman also visit the school during Fire Prevention Week in October and show films and give talks on fire prevention to the school students.

Support of the ticket sales by local residents will be greatly appreciated by the brigade.

Town crews in Coleman are busy this week building curbs and laying new sidewalk along the south side of the east end of Second St. The crews have undertaken a program during the past few years of laying new walk and curbs in many of the residential sections in town.

Since the war, with greater and greater emphasis on landscaping of homes and new factory locations the growing and shipment of nursery stock has become big business. Figures for 1958 show 495,321 ornamental trees shipped, of which 381,068 were domestic and 114,253 imported.

Coleman Students Receive Awards

The presentation of scholarship awards was made in the Coleman school auditorium Friday afternoon before a gathering of all high school students and invited guests and parents.

Principal of the school, Horace Allen, acted as master of ceremonies for the affair and in opening the event, welcomed the guests.

He stated that Education was one of the primary industries of civilized and uncivilized countries. Alberta government spends some $10,000,000 annually on education. He stated that benefits of education would show up to 10 to 20 years after students were out of school and this was the final way that what the students had learned is measured. The only means of finding out how the teachers are training or educating the students is shown on examinations and the students today receiving the scholarships, were reaping some of their first dividends of learning.

Mr. Allen introduced each of the representatives of the organizations sponsoring the scholarships and he commended the groups for their fine gesture. He also introduced each of the winning students and gave a resume' of their school activities and results.

John Holyk representing the Coleman Elks Lodge, presented James P. Montalbetti and Nina Antonenko with cheques for having attained the highest marks in grade nine.

President of the Home and School Association, Mrs. Helen Kropniak, then called on Ken Liddell, and on behalf of the Association, presented him with a cheque for having attained the third highest marks.

For the occasion the happy couple held open house when many of their friends called in to congratulate the couple on their Golden Anniversary.

They received many gifts for the occasion among which was a bouquet of flowers from the town of Blairmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson were the first couple ever to be married in St. Aidan's English Church in Cowley. Officiating at the ceremony, held on September 19, 1910, was the Rev. Walter R. Simpson, who presented Mr. and Mrs. Patterson with a set of new well thumbed Bibles which the couple still cherish to this day. Mrs. Patterson was the former Esther Carney of Cowley.

Mr. Patterson, 76 years of age, was born in Westville, Nova Scotia, on June 27, 1884. He came west in 1906 and worked in the mines in Fernie and Hillcrest, coming to Blairmore in 1918 where he has resided since. During World War One Mr. Patterson served in Canada with the 192nd Battalion. He worked at the West Canadian Collieries mine in Blairmore as a fireboss for many years and later as a watchman, retiring from work in 1954.

He served on the Blairmore town council for four years and was a member of the former Oddfellows Lodge in Blairmore, and is still a member of the Elks Lodge. Mr. Patterson's main hobby is watching television and doing of chores around his home.

Mrs. Patterson, 68, was born in England on August 18, 1892, and came to Canada with her parents when she was six weeks old. The family settled in Winnipeg, Man., for a few years and moved to Cowley when Mrs. Patterson was six years of age.

Mrs. Patterson is a member of the Royal Purple, the Rebekahs Lodge and the IOOE. Her hobbies are knitting and crocheting with a little gardening thrown in on the side.

Mr. Owen was again called upon and representing the Coleman Lions Club, presented Elaine Hereford, Paulette Rypien, Arlene Marcoux and Dolores Ryznar with scholarship awards for the highest marks in grade 11.

Mrs. P. Topak, representing the Coleman Order of the Royal Purple, announced that Miss Kathleen Perschweiller had won the award for the highest marks in grade 12 and with Kathleen now being in Calgary, Studying Education, her brother Ross was called upon to accept the award for his sister.

Boss, who expressed his sister's thanks to all.

Principal Horace Allen announced that Miss Perschweiller had been one per cent short of having won a Hotelman's scholarship.

After each of the presentation, the students very ably expressed their thanks to their teachers, parents for their help to the students for their competition and to the various organizations that sponsored the scholarships.

Principal Allen then expressed his thanks to the individual organizations for having sponsored the scholarships pointing out that the awards were an incentive to better learning. He encouraged the students to put forth every effort to further their school studies.

OF MANY THINGS (By Ambrose Hills)

The Family

It would be a foolish father who would force each member of his family along precisely the same lines. The wise father tries instead to give each youngster a chance to develop his potential skills to the utmost, avoiding discrimination of any kind. To hold back an ambitious child in favor of a slower one would be considered foolhardy.

Most families operate sensibly, so that each member may develop fully. The young earner who saves most is allowed to keep his savings and use them in his own way and is not obliged to turn them over to his less frugal brother or sister. In other words, the normal penalties of life are allowed to operate side by side with the normal rewards. In the happy family, a great deal of flexibility exists under a set of rules fair to all. A good father would not impede the success of one son in order to insure the success of another.

Does this mean that there is no charity in family life?

Not at all.

In home after home, the more talented child will voluntarily assist a slower brother. This is true charity, because it is on a voluntary basis, and thus has great spiritual value.

Few public organizations can match the family unit for spiritual values. Families where there is lack of love, compassion, generosity, charity and innumerable other values, are rare indeed. Even a man who is a rotter in public life will display remarkable virtue in the interests of his family, even to the point of risking his life for them.

The world will never go completely to pot as long as family life continues. If ever the family unit is destroyed, and public authorities attempt to replace natural parents, civilization will be doomed.

OF MANY THINGS (By Ambrose Hills)

The Great Enemy

It is a pitiful thing that each year seems to see fire consuming more of our forests than men do. Thousands upon thousands of acres fall before this great enemy which often destroys the soil as well as the wood.

Fire can be man's best friend, particularly in a cold climate like ours. Nothing is more pleasant than to sit before an open fireplace with birch logs crackling, - or to spin yarns around one of those good old big-bellied stoves loaded with fuel. Perhaps it is the very warmth and cheer of a good fire that leads us to ignore the frightening danger of uncontrolled flames.

Smokers, particularly, become altogether too casual about fire. When the Ontario Fire Marshal recently listed the causes of fires in that province for 1959, careless smoking was high on the list.

There are many misconceptions about the main causes of fire - as any Albertan will be prompt to tell you. For example, natural gas gets far more blame than it should, since statistics prove it to be near the bottom of the list, safer even than oil, which also has a very good record.

Of course, it is probably wrong to say that this fuel or that one has "a good record". It is the people who use it who have the record - not the fuel itself, - which is impersonal and simply obeys the laws of its nature. And we, the people, are to blame when we neglect those laws.

So the great enemy, again, when you get right down to it, is ignorance of the laws of nature, or a silly disregard for them.

Our health, our wealth, and our happiness so often depend only on sensible alignment with nature's edicts; yet knowing this, we court sickness, poverty and despair by flouting the most elementary of such laws.

Ornery creatures, aren't we?

Mr. G. A. Gaherty Accepted As New Chief

In a mountain glade among tall pines almost 300 people, Indian and white, gathered to witness the recent acceptance of Mr. G. A. Gaherty as a new chief of the Stoney Indians. The unyielding face of Mount Yam Nuskai Wall of Rocks overlooked a performance of the Chicken Dance by the Indians' tribesmen. As intricate steps and drum beats of the dance ended, the dignified ceremony began.

"The Tribe's teepees will always be open to your wants, bed and food will always be there to satisfy, and will be protected from you with our robes and furs, horses and bows and arrows will be yours if you have none and the enemy pursue you. All is yours in time of stress that you may take as you desire from any brother's teepee."

With these words, former chief, Jake Two Young Men pledged the obligations of the Stoney Indian Tribe to their new brother and Honorary Chieftain, Chief Powerful Waters. The Eagle Bonnet, with its graceful plumes was placed on the head of Mr. G. A. Gaherty by Chiefs Isaac Two Young Men, Johnny Bearspaw and Dan Wildman.

Replying to the words of the Stoney Chiefs, Chief Powerful Waters pledged in the name of our Queen and the Queen who was the friend of the Indian's forefathers that "We in peace and harmony join together in the work of progress, to make this land a better place for all."

As was expressed by several of the distinguished speakers, few were more deserving of this honor in the name of progress and self's ambition for a better land. No could a more fitting name be best wed on him than the one chosen by the Stoney Indians.

Mr. Gaherty has worked for the cause of planned power development in Alberta since joining Calgary Power Ltd. in 1930. The man behind the design, construction and operation of most of the Company's power plants, Mr. Gaherty is also a director of the Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. and Trans Canada Pipelines Ltd. He has been the recipient of several Doctorate of Laws degrees. He has served Calgary Power as Chief Engineer and General Manager, Vice-President, President and Director, and this year became Chairman of the Board of Directors. His vision and engineering skill have been credited with many power facilities in the province which have strengthened its economy, particularly since the Second World War.

Mrs. Nat Hunter, wife of one of the Indian councillors, bestowed the headdress of the tribe on Mrs. G. A. Gaherty. From now on Mrs. Gaherty will be known as Princess Blue Rippling Waters among her Stoney friends.

Following the ceremony the new Chief extended an invitation to everyone to break bread and smoke the pipe of peace.

Among those taking part in the western style barbecue were guest speakers who had paid tribute to Mr. Gaherty. These included Superintendent of Indian Affairs Mr. Pugh, Judge Manley Edwards, Geo. Goodenham, Mrs. Gorman, Sgt. J. H. Baxter of the RCMP, and Mrs. H. E. Down, an Honorary Princess of the tribe.

Prior to breaking bread together in traditional fashion, Mr. and Mrs. Gaherty met with officials of the Stoney tribe before the fur-covered table. Left to right are: Nat Hunter, Tom Kagitits, Johnny Bearspaw, Mr. and Mrs. Gaherty, Mrs. Nat Hunter and Chief Isaac Two Young Men.

Two Friends Who Have Never Met

A little ragged girl lies paralyzed in a Vent hospital on the bleak Moroccan desert.

About four thousand miles away in a Canadian town another little girl, sound and healthy, is busy sewing flannel into a warm nightgown for her Moroccan friend.

They've never met. They don't have to. Each is linked by bonds of understanding and sympathy.

During this nationally-recognized Junior Red Cross Week, September 25-30, we are made aware of both the helper and the helped.

In Canada, 365 days of the year, almost a million and a half young citizens are making use of their time and talents to help children like the little, paralyzed victim on the desert.

They are particularly concerned with this cruel and senseless affliction. The little desert wail is a victim of an illness that kills only a few but which may leave thousands permanently without use of either legs or arms and which could result in loss of faculties and even minds. "La maladie toxique" as they call it in Morocco, resulted last year from the mixture of aircraft lubricating oil with the staple cooking oil of the natives of the area by unscrupulous people who likely had no idea how disastrous its effects would be on the human system. Nearly 50 per cent of its 10,000 victims were children under 18 years of age. There is no immediate cure. Red Cross supplied doctors and physiotherapists are working to limit the effect of the toxic and to correct the physical deformities already offered. The job of rehabilitation will be spread out over several years, just as it is for polio patients.

The Canadian children are providing three of the much-needed physiotherapists to Morocco in addition to general relief and shipments of clothing and food. In all $16,000 of pennies, nickels and dimes from Canadian school children have been spent on this operation of mercy by the Canadian Junior Red Cross.

Let us not forget to commend these future Canadian leaders during this Junior Red Cross Week and give them the encouragement they deserve.

School Children To Get Free Spinal Examinations

CALGARY — School children in Alberta will once again be eligible for free spinal examinations, Sept. 26 to Oct. 1.

For the second year, the Alberta Chiropractic Association is sponsoring Back-to-School Free Spinal Checkup Week.

In announcing this year's dates, association president Dr. D. F. Lawson of Calgary disclosed that 4,558 children were examined last year, when the nation-wide public service of the chiropractic profession was introduced to this province.

"Last year's results impressed upon the association the importance of having a public service such as this," declared Dr. D. F. Lawson. "Only 32 per cent of the children checked last year were completely free of spinal abnormalities."

Children from nursery school through high school are eligible for the free examination.

Dr. Lawson pointed out that a young body is continually undergoing structural changes and development, and that a spinal examination at an early stage of life is very important.

Women Can Really Help As Front Seat Drivers

Be a front seat driver, not a back seat one.

This is the advice offered by Mrs. E. J. Roylance, Greenwood, B. C., president of the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada, to Canadian housewives and mothers.

"On long trips this fall, wives should share in the driving if they can. By avoiding undue driver fatigue, they are protecting the safety of their husbands and children," Mrs. Roylance pointed out. "On the other hand, instructing the driver from the back seat can only distract and irritate him."

"Canadian women can also help considerably in preventing traffic accidents by suggesting frequent stops for rest and coffee," she added.

Among other protective measures, Mrs. Roylance suggested that a wife should indulge in pleasant conversation to keep the driver alert, and pay special attention to the children to keep them quiet and in a happy mood.

"Safe driving is certainly a major responsibility of women in our modern world. To discharge it, they must use all their natural talents for diplomacy," she concluded.

Third Canadian National Jamboree

Boy Scouts in Canada will gather next summer for the Third Canadian National Jamboree. The event will be held on the Connaught Rifle Ranges near Ottawa on the Ottawa River.

Plans call for an attendance of 3,200 First Class Scouts and their leaders from all over Canada as well as a small contingent from United States, Alberta and the North-West Territories will send a contingent of about 200 boys and leaders among which it is expected a good sized representation will be made up from the Southern Alberta District Councils.

The Jamboree theme is "Scouting from Sea to Sea" with the accent of activity designed to foster maximum of fraternization among the boys from various parts of the country. Emphasis will be placed on scouting skills and many displays will take place throughout the huge camp.

Canada's Deputy Chief Scout, Commissioner, I. H. Nicholson, M.B.E., R.C.M.P. (Ret.) will be Camp Chief.

Included in the program will be a one day visit to the Nation's Capital where scouts will have the opportunity to visit the Parliament Buildings and national monuments.

The boys will camp in patrols of eight doing their own cooking and housekeeping, in true scouting style.

The last Canadian National Jamboree was held in 1953 at Connaught Ranges followed by the World Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake in 1955.
